The increase is due to a number of factors, including a rise in the oil and gas production tax rate from 12.5% to 15% in 1996, and a rise in the oil and gas production tax rate from 15% to 17.5% in 1997.

1. The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in urban areas. This is a result of the process of urbanization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The process of urbanization is the movement of people from rural areas to urban areas. This is done for a variety of reasons, including the search for better living conditions, better education, and better employment opportunities. The process of urbanization has led to the growth of large cities and the decline of small towns and villages. This has had a significant impact on the way of life in the United States. The majority of the population now lives in urban areas, which are characterized by high population density, a high level of economic activity, and a high level of social and cultural diversity. This has led to the development of a new way of life, which is based on the principles of urbanization. The new way of life is based on the idea that people should live in urban areas, where they can enjoy the benefits of a high level of economic activity, a high level of social and cultural diversity, and a high level of living standards.
